

Crooked Pine Band Bio

Playing festivals, weddings, concert houses, house parties, Contra and traditional dances, Crooked Pine has a deep love of mountain music. They infuse audiences with their energy and excitement at every performance. They are favorites at many regional festivals and venues.

Troy Harrison is a very versed musician from Madison Co. NC who adds vocals, banjo, guitar and mandolin to the Crooked Pine sound. Marion Boatwright plays fiddle, banjo, guitar, and sings. Frank McConnell plays guitar, as well as lead and harmony vocals, and Craig Bannerman, stand-up bass and sings as well. The band has been featured in videos for several area attractions, and remains an active and evolving musical influence in Western North Carolina. They have recorded 3 CD's including original and traditional music.
